UNDERSTANDING UNDERGRADUATE ARCHITECTURE THESIS

in association with
Wadiyar Centre for Architecture, Mysuru

An undergraduate architecture thesis involves a systematic exploration of knowledge and its application in academia to enhance, question, discover or re-discover existing practices in the profession.

Being a transitional realm between the academic journey and professional opportunities, the potency of an undergraduate thesis project can be taped to augment the critical thinking and problem-solving abilities, intellectual curiosities, analysis, and writing skills of a professional/an architect-to-be.

Through instances of collaborative learning and discoveries, a well-executed undergraduate architecture thesis can be made beneficial for both the students and teachers, and also contribute to the social, environmental, and tectonic complexities of the profession.

Key Takeaways:

○ The program will equip the participants to deal with inquiries related to allied disciplines of architecture and interdisciplinary inquiries which view architecture from the perspective of other disciplines in a thesis.
○ Instill the skills involved in an architectural thesis including summarising literature reviews, design of inquiries, formulating architectural propositions, writing the bibliography etc.
