CONVERSATIONS AROUND THE MAKING AND UN-MAKING OF BODIES, SPACE AND TIME

The camp has occupied an important space in contemporary academic and non academic discourses yet it is not until recently that its figure has demanded a revisit to its ontology from a multiplicity of trajectories and disciplines. With this in mind, this series of roundtable conversations aim to enquire the camp as more than a mere space, discussing it as a form, a practice and a concept. The roundtables have been designed as an inclusive transdisciplinary forum, where participants will have the opportunity to contribute equally to the discussion.

Roundtable 1 Hosting conflicts, creation, and evolutions

February 27th, 5pm. Central House, Room 2.01 (14 Upper Woburn Place, WC1H 0NN)

Roundtable 2 Hosting people: existential relationships, archives and heritage

March 19th, 5pm. Senate House, Room 403 (Malet Street, WC1E 7HU)

Roundtable 3 Hosting time: the before and after the camp

April 24th, 5pm. Senate House, Room 403 (Malet Street, WC1E 7HU)

Limited entry for participants with first-hand knowledge or experience in camp-related topics.
