

A conference on:

The Archaeologies of Roads

8-9 November 2019
University of Florence

“The Archaeologies of Roads” invites landscape-oriented papers on the topics of archaeology, history, geography, and anthropology from across the globe. The aim of the conference is to bring together digital/computational approaches to roads with the phenomenology, aesthetics, emergence, and ideology of roads. For enhancing the collaboration we use the term "road" in its broadest sense to envelop all possible categorizations, including trails, streets, paths, highways.

Abstracts should be a maximum of 300 words for 20-minute papers.
